SCENES OF HORROR.

The Details of the Loss of the Australian Steamship London---Heartrending Incidents of Heroism and Suffering---Two Hundred Doomed Beings Waiting for Death---Noble Conduct of the Captain---The Passengers Shooting Themselves to Avoid Drowning, &c., &c., &c.

The wreck of the Australian emigrant ship London, with the loss of over two hundred lives, has already been recorded. The English papers received by the Africa furnish details of the catastrophe, excelling in horror and interest anything of the kind that has occurred in Europe since the loss of the Royal Charter.

HEROISM OF THE CAPTAIN.

It was not till four A. M. on Wednesday, the 10th instant, that Captain Martin resolved to put back to Plymouth, the London being then some two hundred miles south-west of Laud's End. But it seems to have been already too late. At half past ten on Wednesday night a tremendous sea swept the ship, broke into the engine room and put out the fires. This was the night on which the thirty vessels were wrecked at once in Torbay. All the passengers of the London worked at the pumps, while the gale became a hurricane, and the ship was losing all control. At length, at ten A. M. on Thursday, Captain Martin called his passengers together and told them that they must prepare for the worst. The ship had already sunk as low as her main chains. One boat was lowered and instantly swamped, but the five men in her were dragged on board the ship. No attempt was made to launch the other boats; but the passengers gathered into the chief cabin, and having been calmly assured by Captain Martin that there was no hope left, they quietly joined with a clergyman in prayer. There was no wild and selfish terror, no screaming, no rushing to the boats; there was the agony of sudden partings, and of everlasting separations of parent and child, and husband and wife; but, with the example of Captain Martin before them, all these dying men and women were composed, and all resigned, while the children wondered and asked why their fathers and mothers, looked so sad. Captain Martin remained at his station on the poop, once or twice only going forward, and once or twice into the saloon to join in the devotions of the passengers. At two P. M., the few men who were destined to survive to bring the sad story home—sixteen of the crew and three of the passengers—determined to trust themselves to the chances of the sea, lowered away the pinnace, and launched her clear of the ship. These men called to the Captain to come with them, but this brave and steadfast English seaman declined, saying, "No, I will go down with the passengers; but I wish you God speed, and safe to land." The boat then pulled away, and five minutes after the London, with 270 souls on board, went down, and all was over. It seems that after the pinnace came away, an ineffectual attempt was made to get the other boats out, but it was too late.

DEMEANOR OF THE PASSENGERS.

The agony of suspense had been so long maintained that on the day the London foundered the passengers were perfectly quiet and unexcited, and a surprising degree of resignation was exhibited thoughout. Miss Marks, of Old Kent road, London, was at first almost frantic; yet when the boat left she stood calmly on deck bareheaded and waved an adieu to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Grant, one of the officers, was lively thoughout, and encouraged many to toil at the pumps—a work rendered by the wind highly dangerous and difficult. Miss Booker, from Pimlico, was heard to say, as she wrung her hands, "Well, I have done all that I could, and could do no more." She then became outwardly calm. On Tuesday night, after the passengers had been alarmed by the shipping of water, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Wood (who had with her, her husband and five children,) Miss Booker and Miss Marks read the Bible by turns in the second cabin. It was on that night that after the sea had poured down the hatch the Captain said, "Boys you may say your prayers." At twelve o'clock on the following night Mr. Draper held a general prayer meeting in the saloon. An extraordinary fact deserves to be recorded. A poor old couple who had three children with them had tried in vain three times to go upon their voyage. First in a vessel unknown, and which was wrecked; next in the Duncan Dunbar, which was recently wrecked, and lastly Gardner, the steward saw the poor wife washed overboard from the London, to leeward, her husband followed her presently beneath the billows. Among the passengers were two stout old people who had become favorites on board, and who had been sent for by their only son. The poor creatures, on learning that they must drown, took a small quantity of brandy and went below to die together in their cabin. Mr. Bevan, a wealthy coach proprietor, and his wife, of Melbourne, who had been enjoying a trip in Europe; Mr. Lemon, ironmonger, Burke street Melbourne; Mr. McLean, owner of extensive baths, opposite the Albion Hotel, Melbourne, who had brought his son to be educated in England, and Mr. Barnett, Russell street, Melbourne, were among those who perished.

BROOKE, THE TRAGEDIAN.

Down into the waves, with two hundred and sixty-nine others, has sunk Gustavus V. Brooke, the famed tragedian, who was bound for the country which had been the scene of a reverse of fortune to him, but previously of many brilliant successes. He will be well remembered as a tall man, of powerful build, and he is stated by the rescued passengers to have exerted his strength to the utmost in helping to keep the ship afloat. The Dutch portion of the crew twenty-one in number, refused to work, and according to the English sailors who were saved, these men went to their berths and remained there, so that the passengers had to work at the pumps for many hours with the English seamen. Mr. G. V. Brooke exerted himself incessantly. Attired only in a red Crimean shirt and trousers, with no hat on, and barefooted, he went backwards and forwards to the pumps until working at them was found to be useless, and when last seen, about four hours before the steamer went down, he was leaning with grave composure upon one of the half doors at the companion. His chin was resting upon both hands, and his arms were on the top of the door which he gently swayed to and fro, while he calmly watched the scene. One of the passengers who saw him has said, "He had worked wonderfully, and, in fact, more bravely than any man on board of that ship." To the steward, who made himself known, Mr. Brooke said, "If you succeed in saving yourself, give my farewell to the people of Melbourne."

THINKING OF HIS FATHER.

Next must be mentioned a circumstance, the publication of which may prove of great importance. Mr. Munroe states that a passenger named Eastwood, with whom he had been acquainted prior to the voyage, said to him—"Well, Jack, I think we are going to go." The answer was, "I think we are, Eastwood." The reply was, "We cannot help it. There is only one thing I regret about it; of a draft for five hundred pounds on the Bank of Victoria, Ballarat, I only received twenty pounds, which I gave to the captain in the office of Money Wigram & Co. I should have liked my poor father to have got the balance." The speaker was among those who perished; but, fortunately and singularly enough, his communication was made to one of the three surviving passengers, and as the deceased Mr. Eastwood's father is known to live near Liverpool, the probability is that his son's wish will be fulfilled—a wish that was so fervent that Mr. Eastwood shed tears as he expressed it.

STICKING BY WIFE AND CHILD.

One of the passengers in the boat—Mr. John Wilson, a native of Montrose—went down into the cabin and endeavored to persuade a friend—Mr. John Hickman, from Ballarat, and brother to Mr. Hickman, solicitor, of Southampton—to attempt to save his life by going into the boat; but, after being entreated, he said, "No; I promised my wife and children to stand by them, and I will do so." The water was then a considerable depth on the lee side of the saloon, indeed over the top of the berths; and he asked Mr. Wilson to help him in removing his four children to the windward side, out of the water. This was done; and then he shook hands with Mr. Wilson, with "Goodby, Jack," and parted from his friend forever. When last seen Mr. Hickman was standing in a row with his wife and children. This occurred about an hour before the boat put off; but probably they had perished by that time, as the water had before then poured into the steamer thro' her cabin windows, and when the boat left the sea was flush with the top of the poop deck, and the corpses of drowned women and children were floating over the deck.

THE CAPTAIN'S LAST ACT.

The Captain, who was walking calmly up and down the poop, had refused to leave his ship, but just before the boat put off he had the consideration and presence of mind to give those in the boat their "course." He told them that it lay east northeast to Brest, which was correct. Before the boat could be got off it was in great danger of being sucked down with the ship, which was rapidly settling beneath the water. The swirl of water round the stern that preceded the foundering had already begun to be excessive, and the boat was therefore hastily cut away.

A THOUSAND GUINEAS FOR A LIFE.

At that moment those in the boat were piteously called upon by a lady about twenty-three years of age, who, with a face which was it is said, livid with horror, shrieked out an offer of "a thousand guineas if you'll take me in." But in that solemn hour millions of money would have been accounted valueless, and to return must have resulted in destruction to all. One of the seamen has stated that when the boat was pushed off, and the captain had wished those in her "God's speed," the men resolved that no danger must be allowed to accrue to them from further crowding, and that some of them drew their knives with a determination of cutting off the hands of those who might leap from the ship and endeavor to cling to the boat's gunwales.

THE LAST GLIMPSE OF THE DOOMED.

Two passengers were seen with lifebelts, but probably none were alive when they came to the surface. The spectacle was only to be seen, for in the din of the tempest no cry from the sinking multitude could be heard, and soon not a vestige was visible. As the ship sunk it was seen that all on deck were driven forward not by water, but by a tremendous and overpowering rush of air from below, which, as it escaped through the deck as well as the hatches, impelled all on deck forward with violence, and their dreadful struggle must have been soon ended—It was remarked that the third officer, who was named Angel, stood to the last at his post at the donkey engine, which was employed in working the pumps, and that his hands were on the engine even as the vessel disappeared.

THE PASSENGERS SHOOTING THEMSELVES TO AVOID DROWNING.

Several revolvers were seen in the hands of passengers, who did not conceal their intention of shooting themselves when the last moment came, preferring to meet their death, when inevitable, by a bullet rather than by drowning. The steward, indeed, overheard an offer by the owner of a pistol, to a friend, that he would shoot him if he desired. The well-meant offer was at that time declined, and whether these intentions were carried into execution is not known, but no reports of fire arms were heard as the steamer foundered.

THE ESCAPE OF THE SURVIVORS.

Leaving the sad circumstances connected with those who have perished, there is something to narrate concerning the adventures of the small remnant of the crew and passengers who were saved. A compass had been given them by the captain, and under the directions of the King, the men agreed that whatever might happen they would sit immovable except when pulling at the oars. Two worked at each oar, and they ran before the sea. Every nerve was exerted to make the boat withstand the fearful tossings and the strain as she mounted the waves and became surrounded by the surge. Before daylight, and as the moon rose, the men were overjoyed at descrying a vessel close alongside. They hailed the ship and were heard, but, as they could present no light, they could not be seen, although they could see the ship tacking about for an hour trying to find them. The search was fruitless, and the ship was lost sight of. The boat had not been rowed during the time the ship was sighted, but simply kept away before the wind until daylight, when no vessel was visible. The men adhered to their course, and, at nine o'clock, sighted two vessels, but were prevented from making for them by the cross seas. They rowed for one of them, however, for five hours. When at last they came up to her they found her to be an Italian bark, the Marianople, Captain Cavasa. Just as they were approaching the vessel they were struck by a heavy squall and shipped a sea, so that all in the boat gave themselves up for lost, but by only one of the men moving in the boat to bale her out, and no fresh seas striking her, they were enabled to bale her clear, and bring up alongside the bark. A line was thrown to them, and they were drawn up to the deck, where they found themselves completely benumbed by the exposure to which they had been subjected.

PROSPECTUS.

THE publication of the

The North Carolina Presbyterian

will be resumed in Fayetteville, on Wednesday, the 2nd of January next.

Confidently relying on the hearty support which we have heretofore received, we shall endeavor to render the paper more attractive, both in appearance and matter, than it has ever been, sparing neither pains or expense in the accomplishment of this purpose.

With the passing away of old things, a new spirit of activity, energy and enterprise, has been infused into every department of secular thought and business. Why should not the Church, also, partake of the progressive advancement? Why should she, of all the agencies brought to bear with such tremendous force upon the civilization of the present time, be inefficient, laggard and almost hopeless in the working out of her own destiny?

To arouse the church to the importance and necessity of work; of unceasing, restless, tireless energy in the service of her Master and Head; this shall be our first and chiefest aim In this we need assistance. We are not, alone, sufficient for these things. Our brethren must help us in every way; by contributions from their own stores of thought and study; by zealous co-operation in a common cause, for the benefit of all; by extending our circulation throughout all our borders, and thus giving us the means and the opportunity of performing well the work to which we have consecrated all that we have, and all we hope for on earth.

HAMPSHIRE COAL.

CARGO OF 275 TONS HAMPSHIRE COAL DAily expected from Baltimore.

This coal is bituminous, and perhaps the best coal known for steam purposes, whether for locomotives or steamboats. It is used almost exclusively by Northern railroad companies and the Cunard Steamers. It is also represented as the best blacksmith's coal in the country, and is very extensively used in iron works for forging, etc. It is soft and friable, the fine coal being as good for use as the lump.

The attention of railroad companies, iron works and machine shops, is particularly invited to the importance of a trial of this coal.

The undersigned having been appointed agent for the Hampshire and Baltimore Coal Company, will be prepared to furnish any quantity required, at a reasonable price.

Orders respectfully solicited.

There is no publication of this character now issued South of New York City, and the closing of the war has left a large portion of the people of the country with no literary representative.

The COSMOPOLITE will be devoted to

Literature, Art, Reviews, Scientific Papers and General Reading, and we shall number among its contributors some of the first literary men of the South, with others from the North and from London and Paris.

All matter not original will be carefully selected from the newest and best of the English, French and German publications; and its Editors will spare no effort or expense to make it rank with the VERY first magazines of the country.

As its name imports, we have established the COSMOPOLITE upon no sectional basis. We hope to make it the organ of general literature alone; and will be uninfluenced by any party or Clique whatever.

It will be mailed to subscribers in any part of the country upon receipt of the following

Subscription:

Single Copies, for one year,	$4 00
Five Copies for one year,	18 00
Ten copies for one year,	35 00

State Credit.

The honor of North Carolina and the future material interests of her people are bound up in the preservation of her credit, and the exertion of every honorable effort for the earliest possible provision to meet her liabilities. Her existence as well as the happiness of her people, are in a great measure dependent upon the maintenance of the character she has always borne for integrity and promptness. Nothing will more readily check the demoralization of the times—the strong proclivity to stave off and evade the payment of the people's indebtedness, than the manifestation of a purpose on the part of legislators, to relieve the apprehensions which may be felt on the part of her creditors, in reference to the payment of the interest now due on her bonds.

The annual resources of the State, either from the profits of her investments or the taxation of the people, afford no reasonable prospect of providing the remedy at the present crisis.—But two plans have been suggested by which any approach to this desired end can be reached. The first is the sale of new State Bonds—the other the issue of State Treasury bills redeemable at a short period, which may have the two fold effect of paying the interest on the State Bonds and at the same time providing a circulation for the people, until the Banks can supply it, making the Treasury bills receivable in payment of State taxes.

There are serious objections to both of these schemes, growing out of the almost certain loss which may accrue either to the State on the one hand or to the holders of these State credits on the other, because of the conflict they must experience with what may be deemed better and safer credits or representatives of money in the market. At first view we were disposed to favor the issue of State bonds more readily, as less objectionable, than the issue of Treasury notes, as proposed by the bill of Mr. Berry of Orange, which was defeated yesterday in the Senate.—More mature reflection, leads us to modify that opinion, and to regret that that bill has been so hastily and adversely disposed of.

The issue of State Bonds to be transferred at par in payment of Coupons, must be a failure. No good reason can be rendered, why new State bonds can be better in the market than the old. Indeed our impression is that they would not command as much. Holders of coupons cannot be bettered by the exchange. To sell the Bonds in the market at what they would bring to pay off the coupons, would subject the State to a heavy loss. Perhaps it would require double the amount in bonds to meet the sum necessary. The exchange of the Bonds for coupons could in no wise inure to the benefit of the State, nor to holders of coupons, except to those who could afford to hold the bonds for ten or twenty years.

The issue of Treasury notes would be preferable to coupon holders who wish to use the notes in the State for the purchase of property or other investments. While they could not circulate beyond the State, yet as they would be redeemable in a short time and receivable in payment of State taxes, they could be disposed of to better advantage than the bonds. They would at once furnish a circulation for the people, and on account of the scarcity of the circulation of greenbacks, would be likely to suffer but little depreciation so long as the scarcity of the National currency existed. The taxation of the people would gradually absorb them if not re-issued, rendering it probable that by the time National currency became general in its use, the amount of Treasury notes in circulation would be easily funded or removed from the market by some other expedient.

We have not touched another plan which has been suggested, that of selling the interest of the State in railroads for the reduction of the debt, for the reason that few seem disposed to risk their sale at so heavy a loss, the State must experience, by a sale at the present time.

Our neighbor of the Sentinel says Governor Worth had intimated no desire for a State Agent—"indeed, could not see the necessity for one." Did you ever hear the like? Why, it was understood on all hands, though the subject was not of sufficient importance to justify a special message to the Legislature, that Gov. Worth was in favor of a State Agent. If he was, and is not now, he has changed; but if he was and is, then the Sentinel is not "the organ," for it has not correctly represented him.—Standard.

The Sentinel does not claim to be an organ of any one but of its editors. There is however, a very striking agreement in sentiment between its editors and Gov. Worth. If it was understood on all hands, that Gov. Worth was in favor of the appointment of a State Agent, such an understanding never reached us. All we know about it is this: we heard Gov. Worth say in substance to a Senator, who asked him if he was in favor of a State Agent at Washington, that if he had thought such an officer necessary, he would have applied directly to the Legislature for the creation of the office, nevertheless he had not felt it his duty to interfere with any arrangement the Legislature might see proper to make.

Scaling Debts.

But little attention seems to have been attracted by the ordinance of the Convention, directing debts to be scaled, and requiring the Legislature to establish the rates of depreciation of Confederate money, at different periods, during the war.

It is a question, by no means free from doubt, whether a State even by the power of a Convention can establish a scale for the reduction of debts, in the face of the inhibition that "no State shall pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts." All the old scaling statutes were passed before the adoption of the Federal Constitution, and offered no precedents for our guidance now. But if the power exists, it is very certain, that the scale reported by the Committee at the Fall session of the Legislature, would do great injustice, if adopted. Confederate money never sunk so low in transactions between citizens of the country, sales of lands, and produce, the hire of slaves &c., and in these there was no approach to uniformity, as among brokers and speculators, whose rates have been recommended by the Committee.—For example, a tract of land worth in good currency $2,500, was sold under a decree of a Court of Equity in November 1863, payable Sept. 1864 for $10,000, and bond taken for the purchase. A slave worth in ordinary times $75, per annum was hired for the years 1864 and 5, at $300 per annum. The money in these cases is still due, and by the scale of the Committee, the price of the land at 21 for 1, will be reduced to $500, and the price of the slave to less than $15, or about one-half of their true value. Even in the price of horses in which there was a large traffic, the depreciation was about 20 for 1, a horse worth $100 being sold for 2000, while at the Committee's scale of 40 to 60 for 1, the amount to be recovered now would be $50 to 33½.

What then is to be done? There must be some relief. Let the County Court of each county, elect two persons, with the liberty to these, of choosing a third who together, shall constitute a court of arbitration for their county; before which shall be brought all questions of scaling debts, with the power to hear evidence, and determine the amount to be paid in each case, where the transaction took place between the 20th, of May 1861, and the 27th, of April, 1865, with the right of appeal by either party to the Superior Court of law. And in every such case, as well as in other cases pending in said Court, from that period, the Jury shall ascertain such amount according to the justice of the case, and for this purpose shall be entitled to hear evidence pertinent to such inquiry.

We are gratified to learn, that immediately after the adoption by the Senate of the United States, of the resolution authorizing the committee on restoration, to take evidence by sending for persons and papers, the Hon. W. A. Graham in behalf of himself and his colleagues, applied for leave to be present at the reception of any evidence affecting the State of North Carolina, with the privilege of cross-examining witnesses, and, if they should deem it proper, of introducing counter evidence.

We are not aware, that there is any thing to the prejudice of the State before the committee, the report of Gen Carl Schurz, relating wholly to the States farther South, as he did not visit North Carolina, and the report of Gen. Grant transmitted by the President to Congress, being in the highest degree favorable. We rejoice however, in the hope, that if any disparaging testimony shall be adduced, it will be subjected to those tests of truth so wisely established by our laws, on oath, and a cross-examination with the liberty of contradiction and exposure.

THE STRAIGHTEST SECT.—The Raleigh Standard has found a new name for the consistent Union men at the South during the war, and calls them the "straightest sect." The name is very appropriate, when we recollect that the title is scripturally applied to the Pharisees, who were the falsest and most contemptible of hypocrites.—Richmond Sentinel.

In justice to our neighbor, we must say that the above bit is rather severe. The term "straitest sect," our neighbor no doubt obtained from the declaration of Paul, in which he asserted that he had lived according to the "straitest sect," a Pharisee. The term however, our neighbor does not always apply to the "consistent Union men of the South." It only applies it to those "so called" Union men who co-operate with many of whom have not been very "consistent."

THE "ARREST" OF GOV. MOREHEAD.—Many erroneous statements having been in circulation in regard to the arrest of Gov. Morehead, at the late Government sale in this town, it may not be amiss to give a true account of the matter, as we understand it. The Governor claimed the property, or at least damages to the value thereof, but by a rule in law, before he could proceed to attempt to recover damage it was his duty to protest against the sale, which he attempted to do, intending in the same connection to make a proposition to which no one could take exceptions, and which would not interfere in the least with the progress of the sale. But he was not allowed to proceed far with this proposition until he was told by the officer conducting the sale to "consider himself under arrest." Of course the Governor said no more, and the sale went on, though we believe that but one or two of the buildings on Gov. Morehead's land were sold, the people declining to bid on the others. Late in the evening the Governor was notified that in consequence of his age and the inclemency of the weather he would not be required to go to Raleigh that night, if he would give his sacred word of honor to be in readiness to go there when required. This he did.—Greensboro Patriot.

The Washington Artillery, an old military organization of New Orleans that served with such gallantry and distinction in General Lee's army during the war, has been reorganized, and it is said will soon be reviewed by General Sheridan.

WHOLESALE HANGING.—No less than thirteen persons were hung in different parts of the United States during the month of January last, and probably as many more will be hung during the month of February.

Huntsville, Ala., boasts the largest spring in the world, discharging a stream of water sufficient to float a thirty foot batteau.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.

FRIDAY, Feb. 9.

The Senate was called to order at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Prayer by the Rev. Dr. Smdes of the Episcopal Church.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. Gash introduced a memorial praying the General Assembly not to levy the usual tax on lands, signed by more than 60 citizens of the County of Buncombe; referred to the committee on Finance.

Mr. Wiggins from the committee on Finance to whom was referred a communication from the Governor relative to property claimed by the State, particularly Rosin, which is also claimed by individuals, reported they had considered the same and ask to be discharged from it, further consideration, and that it be referred to the Judiciary committee, the reference was made.

Mr. Bogle from the committee on the Judiciary to whom was referred the bill to prevent obstructions being placed in Catawba river to interfere with the passage of fish, reported back the same with a recommendation that it do not pass.

Mr. Howard, from the Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred the bill to amend chapter 33rd of the Revised Code, reported back the same recommending its passage.

By the same, the bill giving further security to wid ws for a year's provisions recommending its rejection.

Also, a resolution instructing said committee to enquire into the expediency of amending the law as to grand jurors, had considered the same and ask to be discharged from its further consideration.

The unfinished business being in order, the resolution introduced by Mr. Wiggins, providing for the meeting of the Senate at 10 A. M. unless otherwise ordered, was read and adopted.

Mr. Keener from the joint select committee to whom was referred a communication from the Governor relating to the Cherokee Indians, reported back the same by bill authorizing said Indians to remain in the State; recommending its passage.

Mr. Carter introduced a resolution authorizing the Sheriff of Beaufort county to collect all arrears of taxes for the year of 59-60 and 61, referred to the Judiciary committee.

On motion of Mr. Howard, the bill introduced by Mr. Berry providing for the issue of Treasury notes to be taken in payment of interest on State bonds now due, was taken up. Mr. Berry urged strongly the passage of the bill. He regarded it of the first importance to maintain the credit of the State, and believed the bill proposed was the most effective method now presented. No idea was more repulsive to him than repudiation. He regarded the repudiation of the State debt by the Convention the most fatal stab ever given to the credit of the State, and only less fatal in its consequences, than the act of secession.

Mr. Howard was opposed to the section by which these notes were to be exchanged for coupons. They were mostly in the hands of Northern capitalists who would be mainly benefited by the bill. He was utterly opposed to every species of repudiation—no power could force him to give a vote which would tarnish the representation of the State.

Mr. Carter considered it a most important measure and begged that it should not be hastily disposed of. He submitted various suggestions upon the provisions of the bill, which our space will not allow us to notice particularly. He hoped a vote on the bill would be postponed, as he was not fully prepared to act upon it.

Mr. Morehead was strongly in favor of the bill, if any one however could submit a better method of meeting the case, he was ready to consider it. Objections had been urged that the notes could not be circulated. He thought differently. The people must have a circulation, and he knew nothing better that the Legislature could do.

The question recurring on the second reading of the bill, it was rejected by a vote of 32 to 9.

Mr. Bynum introduced a bill to establish the rates of interest, allowing 8 per cent interest on money loaned, which was referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

A message from the House transmitting the following engrossed bill, resolution &c., which were read and referred as follows, viz:

A bill for the further suspension of the operation of the statute of limitation which was referred to the Judiciary committee.

Aditional names for Justices of the Peace for the Counties of Harnett and Alexander concurred in.

A resolution in favor of Jacob Siler read and passed.

A communication from the State Comptroller giving information in regard to the duties of said office, showing that the amount of labor has increased immensely, and that the salary of said officer is much smaller than formerly allowed, also that every State in the United States except North Carolina fixed the salary of Comptroller at a sum equal to that of Treasurer or greater. The duties of the office demand the services of a chief clerk, who should be paid a salary at least of $1000. On motion of Mr. Ferebee it was sent to the House.

The bill to amend an act entitled an act to incorporate the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, being the special order, its consideration was resumed, the question arising on the passage of the bill on its second reading, Mr. Cowper called the ayes and nays, the Senate voted, ayes 16, nays 23.

The bill to amend an act passed at the session of 1848-'49, to provide for a turnpike road from Salisbury, west to the line of the State of Georgia, &c., known as the Western turnpike road, came up, read second time, and on motion of Mr. Gash, was tabled.

Message from the House, proposing to raise a joint select committee to examine into the business necessary to be dtoed upon by the Legislature, and to designate a day when the General Assembly can adjourn without detriment to the same, which, on motion of Mr. Arendell, was laid on the table.

Mr. Ferebee introduced a bill referring certain resolutions in favor of the Old Dominion Trading Company, which, on motion of Mr. Wiggins, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Messrs. Williams, Bullock, Wilson and McEachern were granted leave of absence until next Tuesday.

On motion of Mr. Jones of Wake, the Senate adjourned until to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

FRIDAY Feb. 10, 1866.

The House was called to order at 10 o'clock A. M.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Smedes, of the Episcopal Church.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Sundry reports were made from standing committees.

Mr. Dunn introduced a resolution instructing an inquiry by the Judiciary Committee, as to the propriety of enacting a Mechanic's lien law.

Mr. Smith of Hertford, from the select committee on the Sinking Fund, submitted a detailed report in relation to said Fund and its management, accompanied by the following resolution.

Resolved, That the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, for the ability, faithfulness and integrity with which they have discharged their onerous and responsible duties, retain the undiminished confidence of the General Assembly.

The resolution was adopted and the report was ordered to be printed.

Mr. Allison rose to a personal explanation.—In the report of Legislative proceedings in the morning papers, it was stated that the amendment he offered, in committee of the whole, to the 11th section of the bill, in relation to negroes, Indians, and persons of color, proposed to allow negroes to testify in all controversies. Such was not the purport of the amendment. It only proposed to admit negro testimony in controversies to which they are parties. The section without such amendment, permitted the negro to testify against white persons, but not in their favor. It was with a view to obviate this that the amendment was offered. (The Reporter makes this correction very cheerfully. Not having had the bill before him he naturally mistook the effect of the amendment.)

Mr. Cox introduced a bill for the relief of the sureties of J. R. White, late Sheriff of Perquimans county.

A bill to alter the county line between the counties of Mitchell and Yancey, was put on its second reading.

Mr. Marler opposed the passage of the bill. The county-seat of Mitchell had been removed to the western end of the county, and the object of this bill was to render that county-seat central by adding to the county of Mitchell a portion of Yancey. The region proposed to be thus added to Mitchell county, was a scope of rough mountain country sparsely inhabited. He had at his room a petition signed by over two hundred citizens of Mitchell county, against a bill passed at the last session altering the location of the county site of said county. He had received it after the passage of the bill.

Mr. Garland urged the passage of the bill. It did not have the object alleged by the gentleman from Burke. He did not interfere in the internal affairs of other counties, and did not recognize the right of others to interfere in matters which they were uninterested.

The bill passed its second reading.

SPECIAL ORDER.

At 11 o'clock, A. M., the House resolved itself into committee of the whole, on the bill in relation to Negroes, Indians and persons of color, or of mixed blood.

Mr. McAden was called to the chair.

In section 17, which proposes to repeal certain laws and parts of laws in relation to slaves and free negroes, Mr. Cameron proposed to amend by inserting in the 5th line after the word "free negroes," the words "except sections 54, 55, 56, 57, 58 and 66." (These are sections of the 107th chapter of the revised code, which prohibit slaves and free negroes from bearing arms, and the imigration of free negroes to this State. The bill proposes their repeal among others, and Mr. Cameron's object was their retention.) The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Smith of Hertford, moved to amend by substituting the following for the 6th, 7th and 8th sections:

Where persons of color have undertaken to intermarry under any form or ceremony whatever, and shall actually have lived together as man and wife until the first day of June, A. D., 1865, they shall be deemed to have been lawfully married: Provided, nevertheless, that where a marriage between either of the parties and another person of color shall have taken place subsequent to the 26th day of April, A. D., 1865, according to the forms prescribed in the revised code, chapter sixty-eight, such subsequent marriage shall be deemed the lawful marriage: And provided further, that all persons of color who shall have heretofore lived together as man and wife and shall continue to so live together after the passage of this act, until the first day of April, A. D., 1866, shall be deemed to be lawfully married.

Where persons of color have heretofore lived together as man and wife and are desirous of being married according to the provisions of the revised code, chapter sixty-eight, the clerk for any county upon demand, shall issue a license, and no tax shall be due, or fee shall be allowed therefor.

On motion of Mr. Phillips, this last paragraph was stricken ont.

The question recurring on the amendment as amended.

Mr. Wilson moved to amend the amendment by substituting the following:

Be it further enacted, That all persons of color who have voluntarily cohabited together in the relation of husband and wife, and still cohabit together in that relation, up to the ratification of this act, shall be deemed to have been lawfully married, although they may not have been married in due form of law. Rejected.

The question recurring on Mr. Smith's amendment.

Mr. Faircloth, of Wayne, moved to amend it by substituting as follows:

SEC. 6. That all men and women who are persons of color, now voluntarily cohabiting together in the relation of husband and wife, shall be deemed lawfully married as man and wife, although they may not have been married in due form of law, and their former issue shall be deemed legitimate for all purposes.—Provided, that nothing herein contained shall affect the rights or relations of free persons of color heretofore legally married. And all persons whose cohabitation is hereby ratified into a state of marriage, shall go before the clerk of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions of the county in which they reside, and acknowledge the fact of such cohabitation, and the time of its commencement, and the clerk shall enter the same in a book kept for that purpose.

SEC. 7. That if any of such persons shall fail to go before the clerk of the County Court and have their marriages recorded before the first of May 1866, they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished at the discretion of the court and their failure for each month thereafter shall constitute a separate and distinct offence.

This amendment was amended on motion of Mr. Phillips, by striking out in the section numbered 6 from its commencement to the word deemed inclusive, and inserting, "That in all cases where men and women, both or one of whom were lately slaves, and are now emancipated, now cohabit together in the relation of husband and wife, the parties shall be deemed etc."

The proviso in the same section was also sticken out on motion of Mr. Phillips, and the following was added at the close of the section, "and such entries shall be deemed prima facie evidence of the allegations therein contained."

Mr. Faircloth's amendment was further amended, on motion of Mr. Phillips by adding at its close the following words: "Excepting however from the operation of this provision all cases where a marriage shall have taken place subsequently to the 26th day of April, A. D. 1865, according to the forms of law; and provided further, that all such persons shall have heretofore lived together." Thus adopted, Mr. Faircloth's amendment was amended as a substitute for the one offered by Mr. Smith of Hertford, and then was substituted for the 6th and 7th sections of the bill.

On motion of Mr. Cameron, the fifth section of the bill was amended by providing that when the former masters are suitable persons, the courts in binding out colored apprentices, shall give them the preference over others.

The Committee then rose, and reported progress.

On motion of Mr. Waugh, the bill and amendments were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Hoke introduced by leave "a bill to authorize the banks of the State to close their business."

Mr. Russell, "a bill to secure creditors in certain cases."

On motion of Mr. Faison, a message was sent to the Senate, proposing to raise a committee to examine into the condition of the public business, with a view to suggesting a time for adjourment.

Mr. Caldwell from a select committee reported a substitute for the bill to authorize the establishment of courts of arbitration in the several counties of the State. Passed 1st. reading.

The House then adjourned until 10 o'clock A. M. to-morrow.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

The Crisis at Hand---Frankness of the President---The Forthcoming Proclamation---A Bombshell in the House.

Correspondence of the Richmond Examiner.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.

Things are coming to a crisis. Yesterday the two Senators elect from Alabama, Judge Sharkey, Senator elect from Mississippi, Mr. Langdon, Representative elect from Alabama, and one or two other Southern representative men, had a long and free conversation with the President. Perhaps it may be promulgated as fully as was the late conversation with Senator Dixon, of Wisconsin, and it does not vary from it in its complexion. Some pretend to doubt the authenticity of the conversation as reported between the President and Senator Dixon. Well, they might be satisfied with the President's own declaration of its authenticity. At any rate, the President gives out that he stands by his words, and that all his words are for the public. There is no reticence, no diplomacy, no legerdemain, no secretiveness, no deception in his line of policy. It is frank and loyal.

I may say that the President has prepared his proclamation declaring that the war is over, that the alienated States have accepted the terms of restoration, that they belong to the Union, and should be recognized by the Government as States of the Union, with their organized rights, including the right of representation in Congress.

After this proclamation, the President cannot approve of any bill which is based, like Senator Trumbull's bill, upon the assumption that the Southern States are still in revolt, or upon the opinion of his law officer, Mr. Speed, that the war still continues.

Mr. Raymond offers this touch-stone resolution in the House. Mr. Stevens will meet it.—In the House it will be a bomb-shell. They will seek some parliamentary subterfuge. But no bomb-proof will protect them from the just indignation of the people. KAPPA.

WASHINGTON, Feb 6.

THE POLITICAL CRISIS.

The public may prepare for some political events within a few weeks, or even days, that may give a new aspect to national affairs.—Hitherto Congress, or rather the leaders of Congress, have had everything in their own way. Perhaps they may remain a unit, even after another unit of equal and co-ordinate power shall be placed in antagonism with them.

NEW MILITARY POSTS IN THE SOUTH.

The establishment of military posts in Virginia, and more latterly in Mississippi, will, it is said, be followed by taking similar action in all the Southern States. These posts will be garrisoned by United States Regulars, who will act, it is understood in conjunction with the Freedman's Bureau.

If the recommendations of the military council, recently in session, be followed, the minimum number of the regular army will be about sixty thousand men, which the President is authorized to increase, whenever he may think it necessary, by adding two companies to each regiment, and also by increasing the number in such company until the maximum be one hundred thousand.

It is believed that the army thus constituted will be sufficient to garrison the South till the States are admitted. The council strongly opposed the present system of arming the militia at the South, and urged that it be at once discontinued.

Hon. A. H. Stephens a Georgia Senator.

Just previous to the recent action of the Georgia Legislature, in electing Hon. Alexander H. Stephens to represent Georgia in the United States Senate, that gentleman wrote to some of his political supporters as follows: "In reply to your interrogatory, I can only say that I cannot imagine any probable case in which I would refuse to serve, to the best of my ability, the people of Georgia in any position which might be assigned to me by them or their representatives, whether assigned with or without my consent." This, of course, amounts to an acceptance of the position to which he has been chosen.—Rich. Ex.

The Sea Island Lands of South Carolina.

General Sherman has addressed to the President a letter, in which he explains the circumstances and prospects with respect to which he issued his famous order setting apart the Sea Island cotton lands to the negroes. He says that when he issued the order he intended it for the practical benefit of aged and imbecile negroes and children, who, having followed him, could not be otherwise disposed of as the war was so near at an end. He is in favor of making restitution of the islands to their owners.—Rich. Ex.

The Bridgeport, Connecticut, Farmer, a paper that has a wicked way of meaning sharp things and saying pretty much what it means, gives it to little Roddy as followeth:

The little State of Rhode Island has a debt of nearly $4,000,000—all for abolishing slavery. The Register says—If this is not "visiting the sins of the fathers upon the children, even to the third and fourth generations," then there are no ten commandments. Most of the very wealthy families of that State, owe their fortunes to a successful prosecution of the slave trade, previous to the war of the Revolution.

GEN. COOK.—Gen. J. M. Cook, the distinguish commander of "Cook's Brigade" of the Army of Northern Virginia, arrived in town, and took rooms at the Metropolitan Hotel Wednesday night.—Greensboro' Patriot.

BURNED TO DEATH.—Miss Milly Pritchett, an elderly maiden lady residing with Mrs. McIver, in this town, was badly burned, on Sunday morning last, by her clothing accidentally taking fire, from the effects of which she died on Tuesday night.—Greensboro' Patriot.

It is stated that the Judges of the United States Supreme Court are equally divided on the question of the constitutionality of the test-oath.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

THE firm heretofore known as that of Baker, Cowper & Co has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. The duties devolving on one of the partners as Cashier of the Bank of Cape Fear, and the removal of the other to Norfolk (his residence before the war) for the purpose of practising law, have caused this dissolution. The business will be continued by Mr Pulaski Cowper and Mr James A. NOTICE.

I SHALL offer for sale, at public auction, on Tuesday, 27th of February next, the farm on which I now reside, situated partly in Nash, and partly in Edgecombe Counties, N C. This farm contains nine hundred and seventy five acres, of which one-third is in a high state of cultivation and well adapted to the growth of cotton, corn and oats. The other portion is well timbered and peculiarly valuable on account of the growing demand for lumber in the vicinity.

I will sell, at the same time, my stock of all kinds including Horses, Mules, Cows and Calves, Sheep Sows and Pigs, and all of good breeds.

-ALSO-

five hundred barrels of Corn a large quantity of Fodder and Shucks, farming Utensils of all kinds, Wagons and Carts, a fine collection of Carpenters' Tools, and about twenty thousand pounds of Pork already killed and salted.

All this property will be sold under the hammer of Mr. J. J. Alston, well known as an accomplished auctioneer.

This property is peculiarly valuable, from the fact that it is within easy access of the Wilmington and Weldon Rail Road, being only three miles from one station and six from another. Location remarkably healthy.

CROOKED RUN,

Febiwary 3rd, A teen 100 and 66.

MR. EDITUR: Dear Sur—Bein as how I was maid a square a short time ago, I conkluded to go to Rolly to thank thee legislator fur the complements so worthily bestowed, an holdin sich a hi position as I now du, I conkluded to take a nuse paper, a thing that I wus never gilty of befoar.

Therefore, yew wil find too dollars for yore paper. Please cend me wun a weak, untel yew cend me the wuth of mi muny. I hav just got back frum Rolly whar I seen the assembled wisdum of the Stait together, and as I am ritin too yew let me tel yew whot I seen thar.

Well, while I was thar, I went too the legislator to see whot cood be saw, and too hear whot cood be hearn. Well, it is a mity big hous whar tha maik laws, and tha ort too maik mity good laws, but thai is some of um what trys to keep the wrest frum harmonizin, as tha ort to do. After the big bel rung, tha all went up in that big rume up stars, I with the wrest, and one man what tha called Mistur Spenker, went up too a hi table and tuck a woodin hamer and hit down on the tabel too or three times, when all wus as stil as mice is when a kat is about.

I begun to git skeerd, and did'nt no whot to do, when one little ball heded feller what stood at the dore, said, to me, mind tha wont hurt you. I felt good then. Then some of um stood up and sum sot down, while a feller prayed fur every body, and the wrest of mankind.

Thar war lots of fokes up thar, and amung um I seen Tony Fulps. Tony was monstros glad to cee me, as wee had not saw each uther sense the wor begun. We youst to bee mity well acquainted til he muved down to Racket holler, and commenced tradin on Terbacker.—Tony shuck hans with me mity friendly, wanted to no sumthin about the craps up in our region, and axed me to hav a chaw of his good Tobacker. Now you don't no Tony, but I does. Tony was a grate war man at first, and went fur the last man and the last sent, but after he got awl the men in the war, what he cood git in by makin big speeches and givin good Tobacker, he kep out hisself, and turned round and went fur the Yunion, and is now a mity good Yunion feller. Me and Tony is mity friendly, and he thinks a heep of me and I does of him. He is a small feller, a fine clever soshal man, he dresses fine, has a monstrus purty pare of whiskers, is a little ball heded, carries a nise kane with brass on it, and has a nise wotch chane with sumthin like goald hangin down.—He is a mity good Younion man now, and he sed, he was maid a square too.

Well, says I, Tony, no body but a Younion man ort to be made a square. Tony says that's so, wont yew hav another chaw of Tobacker. Says I, I dont keer if I do. Tony says then, look, tha ar goin too maik sum laws. Thar wus several papers red which Tony sed was revolutions, bills and sich like. After a while one man got up and sed less go into a kommitte of the whole on the nigger question.

Well there was a mity stir, among um awl, and that feller what sot way up thar cum down and a nuther feller went up thar, then all at wonst, a little feller with black eyes and black whiskers, got up and took his tex on the 11th chapter of the nigger law, and I tell you he gin it perticular fits; he raved and stamped a long time, and when he exhausted the subjeck he sot down and quit. Tony says to me, that feller is a secessioner. Well, sez I, he looks like won. Then another feller on the tother side of the hous and tother side of the question he got up, Tony says that is Mistur Speeker. Says I, he looks like won, and he maid a mity good, strong, censible speach, sed a heap of good things, and I do believe he wil carry his pint, shure. Says I Tony, that Mister Speeker must be a mity good younion man frum the way he tanks. Tony says not so good after awl.—Why, says I. Well, says he, he used to be a mity good younion man, and was powerful poplar, butt in an evil our he left thee ranks of the younion men and went over to Guvernur Wuth, the cheef of the Philistines. What, sez I, aint Gov. Wuth the best younion man in the Stait? Tony said nuthin fur sum time, but kep chawin his terbacker mity fast. At last he sez, I don't think so. Well, sez I, how is that, awl the younion men in mi kounty voted fur him, and the secessioners did'nt vote at all, kase tha was mad. The secessioners is all goin to vote agin Guv. Wuth, nex time, and that maiks me no that he is a strong younion man. Sez I, Tony, won't you vote for him the nex time? Tony sez, I can't tel yet, won't you have a nuther chaw of terbacker, Peter? Yez sez I. Excuse me, a little bit, I want to say sumthin to my friend Tom, standin roun thar.

This friend Tom used to bee a Confederet Gineral, and a monstrous secessioner too. Tony and Tom shuck hans mity friendly, and was so glad too cee one a nuther. Tony says, "have a chaw of my good terbacker, friend Tom." Now Mister Editur, this maid me think that Tony was not so good a younion man as I tuck him too bee. And while I was standin thar warmin mi self buy a good fire maid by a little ball heded feller called a dore keeper, who kep putin on wood, in comes Ike Simpson, and him and me shuck hans powerful, and he axed me hou I dun, hou mi fokes was and whot brot me doun to Rolly and many other friendly questions, about our preecher the piga and so forth. Well, sez I, Ike what makes Tony and Tom so friendly when they youssed to be at daggers pints in politics. Don't you see um over there talkin and laffin so friendly. Well Peter sez he, Tom has bin using round here for a weak or so trying to rebuild his perlitical downfawl; and he wants Tony to help him. Now don't yew ga eny thing about it, but it is certain that Tom wants to by a nuspaper stablishment to ade him a little. As I sed he has been usin round here for several days tryin too maik a traid. And sez Ike they think that as Tony is well acquanted in Rolly he will help Tom to git a press and start a nuspaper. And Peter, sez he, I will tell yew more if yew wil keep it a secret. It is this. Tom wants to git sum feller to run agin Gov. Worth nex summer, and Tom thinks that he can maik sum body beet Gov. Worth. Now that can't bee did, caze our County will gin Gov. Worth a big majority agin any boddy what runs agin him; caze he is sich a good younion man. Now Mistur Editur Ike is a fine good younion man, and a good friend of Gov. Worth, he is a big hevy set feller has a pleasin face and can beet the Jews a shakin hans.

Besides, Ike is close kin to me too, less see, his wife's oldest sun, by her first husban, married mi sister in law's third cozen.

Well, when I told him that we shuck hans agin moor than ever, and sez he, Peter we'll take a drink when the hous rejourns. Sez I, that wil suit me prezactly, as I am mity dry.—Then Ike went in amongst them law makers and commensed talkin with Mistur Speeker, I seed em both lookin round towards me, and I expect tha was a sayin what a smart man I was. Any how Mistur Speeker laffed and turned red in his face, when I hern him say that he wil maik a good square, meanin me of coarse.—Then, Tony cum too me agin and axed me hou I liked the law maikers, sez I, yes I'll taik a nuther chaw of yore Tobacker, I like it rite well. Then, sez I, Tony what maiks yew and Tom so friendly, now when yew wus so much agin each other sum time ago. Tony sez surcumstances alters cases sumtimes, end if I will bee rite friendly with Tom, I can git to sell him sum of mi Tobacker. Tony then lef me; and him and Tom went out and got a drink, and never axed me. I then went to talkin with sum of them big ones in thar, and I hearn um say that Tony was goin to Washingtun sity to traid on Tobacker. If it was'nt so fur up thar I expect he wo d maik lots of munny by so doing.

Now, Mistur Editur, don't you say that I tole you, but I believe that he is goin thar to git in sum offis. Don't tell it to nobody, case it mout make a fuss. No dout he'll maik a good ossifer. Bee shure to cend mi paper too Crooked run.

Yours till I see yew.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

Are the most perfect purgative which we are able to produce, or which we think has ever yet been made by any body. Their effects have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the ordinary medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart a healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and, being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief, were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have client their names to certify to the public the reliabilities of our remedies, while others have given us the assurance of their conviction that our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis our American Almanac, containing directions for the use, and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the bowels and pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases which require an evacuant medicine. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations which they make more profit on. Demand AYER'S and take no other. The sick want the best and there is for them, and they should have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., and sold by Williams & Haywood, P. F. Pescud, Raleigh, N. C., and Dealers generally.

LIFE INSURANCE NOTICE.

THE old and well established

Ætna Company, of Hartford,

Offers superior inducements to all who wish to provide for family or friends.
All losses are promptly paid. No case of litigation has ever occurred with this Company. With assetts of $2,300,000, it offers to receive one half of the premium in a note and half in cash, and, after the second year, to credit each customer with the dividends of the Company, which are now 50 per cent. With a small outlay, $5000, or $10,000, or $20,000, may be secured to the family after their earthly providers are taken away. What father or husband would not feel thankful on his dying couch, that he had availed himself of every proper means to place those nearest and dearest to him, above the pinchings of want, and a life of dependence upon friends or charity? 8 819 policies have been issued from the office ending Jan. 15 1866. The total income for the year 1865 was $1,684,339 57; total disbursements $527 805 24, leaving a balance to surplus fund of $1,155,2 4 33.
In Raleigh, a large number have liberally responded and promptly acted in this matter; yet many delay and may wait until it is too late. A man in this city lately left his place of business for his evening meal, well and healthy, but never reached that home except as he was carried there to die. Had that man taken the advice of the Agent, he might have left $5000 to minister to the necessities of a sorrowing family. Delays are dangerous, procrastination destructive. But one says, "If I only had confidence in the Company that it would pay, I would insure." Well, it never has failed to pay, and to-day is more responsible than ever before. It is patronized by some of the most sagacious minds in the land—men competent to detect and expose any deception if it existed.

THIS valuable Manure has been before the agricultural public, under one name for twelve years past, and its character for vigor of action and permanence in effect is well established. Before the war, it was introduced, to some extent, in the Southern States, and was found to be highly adapted to Cotton, Tobacco, and all Crops.
In its action, it is as quick as Peruvian Guano, while it does not leave the land in an exhausted state, but on the other hand permanently improves it. This has been fully proven by years of trial.

CIRCULAR.

To THE PUBLIC:

The undersigned has now ready for the press a volume, the result of the lucubrations of many years, entitled a "Short Treatise on Chronology in General, and especially on Classical Chronology." The work is not intended to be a chronological chart, nor yet a collection of dates and synchronistic tables. The author's aim has been to prepare a "Horn Book" of Chronology, containing the leading principles, laws and facts of that science.
The FIRST part treats of measuring time and adjusting its various divisions; the SECOND of fixing dates of historical events and arranging them in order; and the THIRD, of miscellaneous matters important to the chronologist.
UNDER THE FIRST DIVISION are discussed the day, the week, the month, the year and certain cycles used in computing the civil calendar and preparing the Almanac; the origin, history, nature, character, and various sub-divisions of each, especially among the ancients.
UNDER THE SECOND DIVISION the methods of ascertaining the dates or the time when they occurred; the actual dates of some important eras whose epochs are disputed; the most important epochs and eras which have been employed at different times and by different nations, including those which are still in use; and the actual dates of the most prominent events in classical chronology.
UNDER THE THIRD AND LAST DIVISION are considered the epochs and eras of less importance; a sketch of the chronology of India and of China; the principles of the art of mnemotechny as applied to dates, and the different systems of that art which have been propounded.
The author believes that a work successfully executed upon this plan, though it may not contain very much that is new, cannot but be useful and profitable, not only to the reading public, but also to the youth of our country, in the acquisition of classical and historical learning: and HISTORY will be THE STUDY of this age; it must always be the study of thoughtful men in times of revolution and great political changes, such as our country is at present undergoing.
The contributions of North Carolina, and of the Southern States of the Union generally, to American literature, have heretofore been few, and for the most part, worthless. A few works of fiction and some fugitive poems include our past efforts; and with the excellent Latin Grammar, and the edition of Cæsar's Commentaries, prepared for the press by Col. Bingham—works the very best of their character which have ever fallen under our observation, and which, under more favorable circumstances, will yet win for their author that high reputation in his profession which he merits—our contributions to USEFUL LITERATURE are of the very humblest character. Under such circumstances this book is, with some confidence, presented for public patronage.
The author proposes to publish by subscription. The cost of publication will be fifteen hundred dollars, or more. The book contains about two hundred and fifty 12 mo. pages. It will be brought out in the best style of one of our best American publishers, as to type, paper and binding. The cost of single copies delivered will be $2.50.
Persons desiring to subscribe can communicate with the undersigned at Raleigh, but subscript on lists will be opened at various places of business in Raleigh and other towns in the State. Subscriptions will be required in cash as essential to the success of the enterprise. Editors who will give this Circular a few insertions and forward a copy of their papers containing it to the author, will be furnished with a copy of the book.
The volume will be placed in the hands of the publisher as soon as the author's success is at all assured, and will be issued to subscribers a few weeks thereafter.
